

DGDG is on a growth cycle and having our entire team on the most current Office and email platform is critical. This is vital from not only an internal efficiency perspective, but also for recruiting great talent to join our group. We simply cannot hope to attract top notch talent if we are working on old and outdated software and infrastructure. We are fortunate to have found Intivix, who designed, implemented and is supporting our updated system. They have laid the foundation to help us scale.

Continuity is also key for our growth and now that our team is on the most current software available, it allows us to replicate over and over to scale our business. Increasing our staff will no longer be such a daunting task.

Other consultants we evaluated did not have the resources available, nor the manpower or knowledge base. Intivix not only offers present 'real time' solutions, but also has the vision and breadth to help us plan and strategize for future technology implementations.

Simply put: Hire the EXPERTS. Don't kid yourself into thinking that you know enough about IT to make the correct decisions.
